SWINGING ROUND THE CIRCLE.

President Cleveland is trying to learn something, says the New York Tribune, of the great country which looks to him as its chief magnate. He begins that branch of his education rather late. Other Americans, of active minds and sufficient ability to secure a comfortable income, learn something of their country by travel before they reach age. A small part of the money wasted in personal gratification during twenty years of manhood would have given Mr. Cleveland knowledge, not merely of what he can now see from the windows of a parlor car, but of the beauties and resources of the country, its people in various sections, how they live and labor, what they are thinking about and what they need.

Unlike other Americans of ability and good income, Mr. Cleveland never cared to know more of the country. It does not appear that he ever journeyed west of Cleveland or south of Washington before he became president. The vast west and the growing south remained practically unknown to him, and he now begins late in life to realize with some amazement the magnitude and grandeur of the nation. Until he came to have political aspirations to be promoted by traveling, he never spent a single day in the ride from his home at Buffalo to Indianapolis, Chicago or St. Louis. Other Americans, more than a million in number, though not blessed with large incomes, were educated by traveling through the south with Sherman and Grant in the service of their country, but Mr. Cleveland had not that ambition. Now that he is president and a candidate for re-election, he wants, for the first time, to see the country.

One other president, who was also a democrat at that time though elected as a republican, made a similar tour of observation while charged with executive responsibility. Andrew Johnson's swinging round the circle made him better known to many of his countrymen. He went on an electioneering tour, wanting to let the people see and hear him, and convinced that if they knew more of him they would make haste to elect him president again. The result did not meet his expectations. The people who saw him face to face went away with a feeling that a man so coarse, so passionate, so sensual and so vain could not safely be intrusted with power great enough to turn the heads of cooler men.

Whether President Cleveland's tour will promote his political aspirations is yet to be seen. Of course, no public object requires this employment of some weeks of his official time. Neither is such a journey rest or recreation for any man. His personal manifestation of himself in sundry towns and states, his brief and rather commonplace remarks of local compliment, his intercourses with democrats who feel that it is a distinction to escort and entertain the president of this great country, are expected to increase his popularity. Probably this tour, as an electioneering trip, will prove a mistake, for the president needs no increased strength with his own partisans to secure a nomination, while his trip is not made under such circumstances as to command the enthusiasm of others. It is not more likely that was Andrew Johnson's to win him the affection of political opponents. Men who have not seen him face to face will have that satisfaction, but it was not where Mr. Cleveland was best known that he received heavy majorities.

September proved the liveliest month in the cotton trade on record. The movement from plantations and interior towns to the seaboard was by far the largest ever known. At all ports 654,636 bales were received, against 338,921 last year, and 334,922 the year before. The only year approaching these figures was the season 1880-81, when 463,000 bales reached the seaboard. At New Orleans 147,469 bales were received, of which 133,877 were not. These figures are double the quantity handled in September, 1880, and are unprecedented in the history of the trade. The season opened with a very spirited demand from spinners, who needed supplies to keep their machinery in motion, but cotton has come forward so freely that the market has lost much of its tone and price have settled down slowly until considerably below the parity of last year. The hot and dry weather of August forced the fringate, and picking bales general earlier than last year, and the weather since has been favorable for shipments. It is generally expected in the trade that the October movement will prove very large. The port receipts that month have never reached 1,100,000 bales, but it is thought the year's figures will top this quantity. It is largely a question of transportation facilities, however, but these are being steadily augmented, and may prove equal to the task of moving a million and a quarter bales if that much is offered.

A graphic pen and ink sketch of the Baltimore democracy has been drawn in the address of the independent democrats of that city. The following sentences from that production show how low down the Higgins democracy has sunk. "There is no democratic party in Baltimore city. There is an organization here calling itself by the name of the democratic party, and abasing the name to the worst uses. It is not in any sense democratic. It is a purely commercial association, trading in legislation and patronage as a business. This organization has tended together the criminal classes of the city for election and other purposes. Seven men have been appointed to office under the city, state and national governments within a few months past who have taken human life, and these appointments have

ARRIVED TO CHICAGO.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—President Cleveland, accompanied by Major Roche and members of the Reception Committee, drove to the Military Encampment yesterday morning and, having reviewed the troops, proceeded to the Northwestern depot, where he was joined by Mrs. Cleveland, and the Presidential party departed for Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 7.—The scenes of the departure from Chicago were of the usual character.

An evanescence there was a brass band, a serenade and a triumphal arch of evergreens. At Kenosha 2,000 people had assembled. At Racine there could be seen flying over the town a mile away. At similar stations all the country population round about was in waiting, and even the pioeers in the fields and their horses bedecked with flags and ribbons. At the Northwestern station the depot and the Presidential car was brought abreast of the temporary platform upon which the President was to alight. The immense crowd cheered repeatedly, and swayed and surged about the depot platform.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 7.—The President and Mrs. Cleveland arrived here at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The city was handsomely decorated for their reception, and the most elaborate and sumptuous of all rooms of the Jentzsch Club, a Democratic institution. Other arches along the line of the procession were erected at the corner of South Water and Ferry streets, and at Reed and Lake. The west side of the court house, where the Mayor formally welcomed the President, was entirely covered with red, white and blue, and a platform extended to the curb. South park and the surrounding avenue, also, were decked out in the best of taste, and a large number of people were in the most artistic possible fashion. Flags were displayed on all public buildings, and the Chamber of Commerce, depots, railroad houses and other places along the route of the parade, were elaborately decorated.

The Presidential party were received at the depot by the mayor, prominent citizens in carriages, and a large procession of military and civic organizations. The business portion of the city the business portion of the city the procession moved past the court house, where it was reviewed by the President from a stand. A formal address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Walker, and the President responded with a brief response. There was a great crowd, but good order prevailed. ## BRIEFLETS.

LOOKING AT GROVER.

Mrs. Day at the Way Side Inn to-night.

To go and hear Mrs. Day at the Inn to-night.

Oysters served in every style at the Inn to-night.

Funeral services over the remains of Loren Cheney were held this morning.

Remember the reception and oyster supper at the Wayside Inn this evening.

Next week Justice Pritchard will take up the hotel robbery case of Curtis against Holling.

There are more people in Madison to-day than the city ever saw before—or ever will see again.

Cream cake, almond cake and sunshiny cake, cookies and fresh bread at the Woman's Exchange.

Don't forget that the oysters will be served in Mrs. Shurtleff's best style at the Way Side Inn to-night.

The Nelson Bros., liverymen near the Court street bridge, lost a valuable horse yesterday from paralysis.

For the last two days the standard around which all the anxious to see President Cleveland rallied this morning. The hat was reinforced by three United States flags and a blue banner inscribed:

ROCK COUNTY'S GREETING.

DEPARTMENT OF THE CIVILIAN.

Ex.-Mayor Alex. Richardson's shining silk hat was the standard around which all the anxious to see President Cleveland rallied this morning. The hat was reinforced by three United States flags and a blue banner inscribed:

ROCK COUNTY'S GREETING.

DEPARTMENT OF THE CIVILIAN.

The crowd that backed up the shining hat and the three flags were of course composed largely of "old line" democrats.

Still the republicans kept up their end of the line fairly well and wore the blue "Rock County Delegation" badge with grace and dignity.

Two sign painters that could letter a thirty-foot wall with three colors in ten minutes, were a center of attraction on the west side.

Sale of reserved seats for the Eagan & Wall Comedy company will commence on Saturday morning at Prentiss & Evanson's.

BELOIT COLLEGE NOTES.

A PRIZE FOR EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEAKING—COMPANION GYMNASTICS.

Walter Rice, '02, has established a prize to be given to some member of the junior class, for extemporaneous speaking. The subjects are to be announced half an hour before the time for speaking thus giving the men but little time to prepare and throw them upon their own resources. It is a plan never before introduced here although having worked admirably elsewhere. Much interest is shown by those intending to enter for the prize.

Prof. E. G. Smith gave a talk to the boys the other day upon "German Universities". The professor having been through one of them is in good position to speak concerning their methods of teaching as compared with our own. The main difference between American and German universities, he claims, is that here we learn something about everything and there we learn everything about something.

Dr. Lyman, of Chicago, delivered an address to the students yesterday afternoon on the subject of "Health". He laid down a code of rules which, it followed, will prove of material benefit.

President Chapin is absent attending the annual meeting of the "American Board," which is being held at Springfield, Massachusetts. But few men in the west are better known in missionary circles than the president, having been to the West Indies, China, Japan, Korea, and the Philippines.

Two sign painters that could letter a thirty-foot wall with three colors in ten minutes, were a center of attraction on the west side.

Sale of reserved seats for the Eagan & Wall Comedy company will commence on Saturday morning at Prentiss & Evanson's.
